WE HAVE MET THE ENEMY—MIDDLEBURY 6, U.V.M. 2

BIG CELEBRATION OF U. V. M. VICTORY

President Thomas Addresses the Students. Bonfire on the Hill.

Middlebury's most successful football season, which closed Saturday with her first victory over U.V.M. on the gridiron since nineteen hundred and two, was enthusiastically celebrated Monday night with a torchlight P-rade and monster bonfire.

The P-rade formed in front of the old chapel at 9 o'clock, marching from there to Prexy's house, where, after a number of rousing cheers, Dr. Thomas expressed his appreciation of the victory over U. V. M. as well as the splendid work of the team all through the season. After producing Gamaliel Painter's cane which Dr. Thomas brings out, only after a U. V. M. victory, the students were invited inside and passed by a receiving line composed of Dr. Thomas, Coach Holmes, Manager Towne, Captain Lang and Mr. King. Light refreshments were served to the men and the P-rade then reformed for the march through the main streets where the college songs and cheers were rendered. A snappy snake dance concluded the downtown celebration, and the men marched back to the hill where an enormous pile of boxes and barrels had been collected during the day. The procession stopped in front of Prof MacGilton's and gave him a rousing cheer. He addressed the men briefly, commenting on the good work of the team. He made a most interesting play on the initials of the teams Middlebury had defeated. He said: "For Stevens, S., stands for Slaughtered; R. P.I., R., Ruptured, P., Punctured, I., Impotent; Norwich University, N., No Use, U. Upset; U. V. M., U., Undone; V., Vanquished; M., Mastered, and for the four letters M I D D., M., Masterful, I., Invincible, D., Determined, D., Devoted."

He said we could now sing the old familiar song, "Holmes, Holmes, sweet sweet Holmes, Be he ever so humble there's no slow coach about Holmes." It was his opinion that our chemical experiment on the hill would be a case of spontaneous combustion.

Dr. Thomas touched a match to the oil-soaked pile and as the flames mounted skyward, the men stood around with uncovered heads and sang the Middlebury Alma Mater.

Porter Field Cleared of Snow.

The snow fall of Tuesday covered Porter Field to the depth of a foot, but the entire student body of the men's college went to the field in the afternoon and cleared the ground so that it would be possible to hold football practice each day before the U. V. M. game.

CAPTAIN LANG

The Middlebury College foot ball team won the intercollegiate championship of the state Saturday afternoon by defeating the University of Vermont football team by a score of 6-2, in a most exciting and hard-fought contest at Centennial field, Burlington. The game was won in the second period when Middlebury carried the ball from midfield to the Vermont fifteen-yard line. Here, on the split formation, Bower made a pretty pass to Good, who caught the ball and carried it across for the only touchdown of the game. The game was one of the hardest fought that was ever witnessed in Burlington, neither team apparently having much advantage over the other.

The lines were evenly matched and very few gains of any length were made through either. The speedy backfield work of Bower, Bresnahan, and Lynch excelled for Middlebury. The offensive under the able leadership of Bower was carried out with greater skill of attack than that of our opponents. Long forward passes, cleverly handled, were responsible for most of our long gains. Middlebury clearly excelled in the first half, but Vermont came back strong and honors were very closely contested for the rest of the game.

A crowd of more than two thousand people witnessed the contest, which was the final one for the state championship. Middlebury went to the game by special train, four hundred and thirty-four tickets being sold for the special at the Middlebury station. The game did not start until three o'clock and darkness set in long before the second half was over, making it difficult for the players as well as the officials and specators to follow the ball.

Vermont presented a different line up from that used in most of the games this season. Capt. Burke, who has regularly played at quarter, filled an end position, while Bowman, Vermont's heavy full back and star punter, was able to play only a few minutes owing to injuries received earlier in the season. It was an interesting fact that ten of the men who started the game for Middlebury had been up against Vermont in football in previous years.

An analysis of the plays shows that the forward pass was Middlebury's most successful gainer. Middlebury's punts averaged much longer than Vermont's and the fact that they made so much more that than we in rushing the ball back was due to the number of our punts, especially in the last quarter.

Distance made by rushing :

	MIDDLEBURY	VERMONT
First quarter,	56	58
Second quarter,	55	76
First half;	111	134
Third quarter,	54	25
Fourth quarter,	17	109
Second half,	71	134
Game,	188	268

MANAGER TOWNE

ENTHUSIASTIC RALLY BEFORE U. V. M. GAME

All the Men of the College Present and Hear Fine Speeches.

The rally held on the eve of the U. V. M. game was certainly full of "pep" and everyone present showed the proper college spirit. As was only right, this rally was the best that we have had this year and did much towards gaining the victory on the following day.

President Thomas was the first to speak and he commended very highly the spirit that the fellows were showing in the meeting. He said that he had a feeling that we were going to win the game but that we should not depreciate the merit of our opponents as they came from the same prep. schools as many of us and would put up a good fight.

Mr. Percival Wilds, '02, president of the Alumni Athletic Association spoke next, outlining very briefly the work of the organization and commenting on the splendid spirit manifested at the rally. He also mentioned the last game he witnessed at Burlington when Midd. triumphed over U. V. M. 12-0.

Doctor Harrington then made a few remarks. He said that he always attended the rallies because he thought it did him good to become imbued with a fine healthful spirit, as has always manifested at these gatherings. He also said that he thought the next day was a Middlebury day and was confident that our team would capture the laurels.

The band played the Victory song for the first time at this rally. This was made possible through the efforts of Mr. Phillips, who transposed the music for the various instruments. A new cheer was also introduced which was short enough to be given between signals, and it worked very well at the game on Saturday.

The other cheers and songs were also rehearsed during the meeting under the able leadership of the cheer leaders Lee and H. M. Davis and the song leader, Williams. The rally closed with a snake dance around the gymnasium and a good long yell for the team.

The Cheer Leaders.

The work of Middlebury's cheer leaders thruout the season and especially at Saturday's game deserves great credit. Their's is no easy nor enjoyable task and the way they have stuck to it and their enthusiasm are worthy examples of the stuff Middlebury men are made of. The cheering and singing at Saturdays's game was the best Middlebury has ever produced. The men directly responsible are Lee '17, H. M. Davis '17, Williams '17 and Everitt '18, and to them all credit may justly be given.

Our Victory.

In the old days when Middlebury College graduated an equal number of men with Williams, Bowdoin and Amherst, when the little college among the hills held the distinction of being much the largest in Vermont, and the pride of New England, when her halls of learning equalled in impressiveness and dignity those of any like institution, then Middlebury was in her right. Days of misfortune and set-back followed this prosperous period when the loyal sons of old Midd enlisted almost to a man in the service of their country. The blow was too severe to permit of a quick recovery. Our institution passed through evil days while it was slowly acquiring strength to take another forward step. During this painful process, external evidences of growth were largely lacking, and only its most loyal friends were confident of the outcome.

It is with great satisfaction, now, that we look back over all our past discouragements and view our triumph in the light of obstacles overcome. Our glorious victory of Saturday last is only one element in our triumph, and it must be regarded as such, for Middlebury College is not, and let us hope never shall be, a synonym for football achievement. Let us not miss its true significance, however. Our victory over U. V. M. marks an EPOCH. It is significant because we have proved to our own satisfaction, as well as to the world at large, that Middlebury has entered again upon her own right. The place of honor which we once held but long lost among the New England colleges is once more ready for us to go in and take possession.

For eight long years our beloved president has labored unflinchingly and with the deepest devotion to secure for Middlebury and her alumni this coveted and rightful glory. We as students will never know what has been the cost in the way of personal sacrifice, and his reward must ultimately consist largely in the knowledge of having served well his Alma Mater and humanity, for this has not been a slavish and prejudiced devotion to a one-sided cause. Our rejoicing and his does not consist in the mere fact of having won a long desired football victory, but in all which this victory symbolizes. Under his leadership Middlebury has been preparing for this manifestation of her power. The spirit of Gamaliel Painter is once more abroad and his cane is now an inspiration to the student body as well as to its honored possessor.

To the men of the varsity squad who have served us for the last time we extend our heart-felt thanks and sincere congratulations. For four years they have been preparing themselves for this final offering to their Alma Mater, and it surely is with a sense of deep satisfaction that they now give place to their successors and bear away the choicest laurels which Middlebury has yet secured in football. It matters not whether we are closely allied with the work of the football squad. Every loyal son of Middlebury should feel and show due respect for the upholders of the Blue and White. The splendid work of the coaches in perfect harmony with the team has given us the best eleven in our history. The pace was set in our victory over Union, and we have marched steadily on ever since. Our defeat at the hands of Bowdoin has apparently worked for us a more exceeding weight of glory, for only once since then have we failed to at least tie the score. Rensselaer bears witness to the heaviest gains of our team during the whole season when they lost to us 0-31.

Our victory was not bought at a dear price, for we are stronger than ever before. Our prospects for the future are bright, and next year's team will be a decided improvement on the present. Moreover, the support which the student body is now giving the squad is another big element in our success, for with its solid support many a weak spot is bridged over, and the strength of the strong is increased. For the alumni who have awaited anxiously our day of retribution this surely is a morsel of delight, and we fancy that their support in the future will be more cheerfully given as to a conquering cause.

One word more. Let us use this victory in a manner befitting the ideals of our institution. It marks only the beginning of a new era for Middlebury and accordingly should be the signal for renewed effort and determination to develop along all our lines of activity. If we as students and alumni consistently support every worthy activity of Middlebury as we have the football team during the season which has just come to a close, we will celebrate far greater victories in the future.

The Meaning of Our Education.

What is the aim of a college education? Do we want a college education as a means to a better position and a better salary than could be obtained without it? Do we want it as a means to win social prestige? Do we come to get a knowledge of History, Literature, French, Economics or Philosophy? We do come for all these things, perhaps, but would we not all agree that the primary purpose of a college training is to get a broader, bigger, outlook on life in order to become better, broader, finer, citizens when we finish our academic work? In training ourselves for citizenship, what characteristics should we develop in our college life? Loyalty is perhaps the first attribute we think of, and has the greatest chance for development in college life. We must be loyal to our professors, our friends, our studies and to ourselves. It is this very matter of loyalty that leads us into difficulty. Can we be loyal to all? We can, but are we? We are too loyal to our own particular interests and friends until, without meaning to do so, even without being aware of it sometimes, we become disloyal to our college. We allow our prejudices to form our opinions, even to warp our better judgment. This does not make for good citizenship after our college career is finished. Stop and think, and be fair. Do you not let your prejudice rule you more in college than you ever did before? Socrates taught that every man possesses a sense of right and wrong which is the same for all. Differences in opinion in regard to the right arise from muddy thinking. We can never arrive at the right until we can free ourselves from our prejudices and think clearly. Many generations have passed since Socrates taught these things but this fundamental truth holds good today.

Are you becoming narrower instead of broader? Are you letting your college education defeat its own end?

The Line.

A foot ball team like everything else is a thing dependent upon its parts. Those parts are the men who have spent their fall afternoons, and indirectly their evenings, in the service of their college. While we talk a lot about the team and its successful season, most of us realize that we owe much to the individuals.

As the team lines up, crouches and the ball is snapped, it's the ball that we follow from the stand and the man that happens to be carrying the ball also carries the attention of all who are anxious to see him cross the line of scrimmage for his distance. If he makes it, he gets a rousing cheer.

But what of the men crouching on the quivering line of scrimmage? Opposed by keen-eyed players, compelled to manœuvre for an advantage in position, alert to get off with the ball and bound to make a hole or slip through for a tackle, there is the backbone of the team and we want to give them due credit for their work this season. Personal mention is not necessary. We know and shall remember the players on that line who have made it a formidable thing on offence and defence.

When it comes to the actural scoring we recognize our dependence in our backfield men. Nothing but practice, training for speed and condition and constant head-work can do the business. So we hand it to our backfield and ask them to accept both our spoken and unspoken thanks for their excellent work, together with a promise of our backing in their other activities now that the football season is ended.

Five Varsity Men Played Their Last Game.

Participating in Saturday's victory were five seniors who at that time played their last football game for Middlebury. These men have have served their college long and faithfully and will be sorely missed during next year's football season. We are giving herewith a short sketch of their football career at Middlebury.

CAPT. LANG.

Captain Lang, a born football player, has been on the varsity every season since he entered college four years ago. Holding down the center position he has always been a tower of strength, but this year has shown up exceptionally well. To him goes the honor of leading a Middlebury team to victory over U. V. M. for the first time in a number of years. Saturday "Ted" played his last football game for Middlebury and his memory will remain with us all as a sterling football player.

HORSFORD.

"Hors" has held down a position on the varsity every year since he has been in college and has been one of Middlebury's best linemen during that time. Coming from Goddard Seminary, a very athletic prep school, "Hors" was not entirely new to the game and each year has shown him playing better. He was out of the game a while this season from injuries, but was back in time to finish his football career strong in the U. V. M. game.

BRESNAHAN.

"Tommy" is another of our stars who came to Middlebury with an established reputation as a football player and has not let a season pass without adding to his record. He has played at quarter and halfback and has always been a valuable man on the team. Being the lightest man on the squad Tommy has received frequent injuries but his grit has always brought him back into the game, and his speed and broken field work has added many a point to Middlebury's score.

HARD.

"Milt" is another of our seniors who has played his last game for the Blue and White. He entered from Colby Academy with an athletic reputation and has lived up to it by playing varsity football four years. "Milt" has been at left guard this season and has been largely instrumental in opening up the holes through the center of the line for our backs to gain through. He was also strong on the defense and will be greatly missed when the team lines up next fall.

REYNOLDS.

"Jack", another of our five varsity men who leave us next spring, was kept out of the game last season with injuries but nevertheless has made three "M's" since he came to college. Probably the heaviest man on the team, Jack has many times astonished all by his agility. Unable to come out until the latter part of this season in the last three games, "Jack's" tackle has been called as the signal for many of Middlebury's gains. Strong on the offense and immovable on the defense, "Jack" is another man who will be missed next fall.

Midd Spirit.

That time-honored customs of Middlebury will never be neglected as long as there are co-eds, is shown by the fact that the old chapel bell clanged out the news of the U. V. M. victory for forty minutes after the returns came in, responding to the sturdy efforts of four excited girls. "A strong pull and a long pull and a pull all together," and the curfew broke the stillness of a deserted campus. They do not indulge in suffrage parades but the co-eds are always ready to show their appreciation for the privileges they are given.

MIDDLEBURY 6, U. V. M. 2.

First downs—Middlebury, nine.
Vermont, twelve.
Punts—Middlebury—six for a total of 235 yards.
Vermont—four for a total of 125 yards.

Middlebury took the offensive early in the game and won in the second quarter. Directly after our touchdown, Vermont rushed the ball steadily down the field by a series of line plunges and end runs, until it was within two or three yards of our goal line, but here they were held for downs, and lost their best chance to score. Vermont's only score came shortly after when Middlebury was forced back of her goal line for a touchback.

Soon after the opening of the second half Vermont took the offensive and kept the ball in Middlebury's territory the greater part of the time. Several times the green and gold team threatened our goal line, but intercepted forward passes usually gave the ball to Middlebury and broke up their progress.

Middlebury's defense held firmly, and excellent interference was given to the man carrying the ball in almost every case. Middlebury also played the punting game to good advantage, this line of play saving the game during the last few minutes of play.

MIDDLEBURY TIES N. H. STATE

Saturday, November 11, at Durham, N. H., Middlebury battled New Hampshire State College to a scoreless tie. It was an exceedingly hard fought and interesting game, closely contested at all times. In the last quarter New Hampshire State succeeded in keeping the ball in Middlebury's territory all the time. Middlebury came near scoring on several occasians, once in the second quarter rushing the ball to the 6-yard line, and three times more in the first half were our men within New Hampshire's 20-yard line. The nearest we came to being scored upon was when they carried the ball to our 10-yard line.

Middlebury tried seven forward passes and New Hampshire six, but only one was successful, Bell to Westover. New Hampshire State made fourteen first downs to our six, but our gains, although fewer in number, averaged a much greater distance. While most of New Hampshire's gains were made around end, ours were very evenly divided between the center of the line and around end.

In the first quarter Bower made the longest run of the game when he ran back a kick forty yards. For Middlebury, Pollard, Bower, and Deufel excelled, while for New Hampshire State, Westover, Hewey, Jenkins, and Bell showed up best. The hard all-night trip which our men were forced to take probably accounts for the failure to bring home the victory. However, our men showed up splendidly and best of all, not one received injuries sufficient to keep him from the U. V. M. game.

Women's Rally.

A great deal of enthusiasm was aroused for the U. V. M. game at a rally held in Pearson's social hall by the women of Middlebury College, Friday evening at seven o'clock.

The rally was conducted by Miss Charlotte Marsh, President of the Woman's Athletic Association, and under her leadership, our college songs were sung and cheers were given. In addition to this, Mrs. Prexie Thomas and Miss Ross gave short, impressive talks. Mrs. Thomas reminded the girls that their opportunity to show their loyalty to the team was by backing them up with a good attendance at the game at Burlington. The program closed with a snake dance, the girls singing, "March On Down the Field."

Football Banquet.

Mr. Ebenezer Saunders, a retired New York manufacturer who is making his home in Middlebury, has invited the entire football squad, numbering about forty, to be present at a banquet to be given at the Addison House Thursday evening of this week. Mr. Saunders has been very much interested in the work of the Middlebury football team this fall and takes this way of showing his appreciation for the fine work they did in winning the State championship. The team as well as the whole student body extend a hearty vote of thanks to Mr. Saunders.

Y. W. C. A. Play.

An interesting and unique meeting of the Y, M. C. A. was held last Thursday afternoon in the men's chapel. The hour was given over to a trial, "Christian vs. Heathen". Christian was sued for not having done his duty in the dark countries. Witnesses were gathered from far and near and each gave an interesting and pathetic testimony. The just and dignified jurors were deeply impressed and the judge found great difficulty in controlling his emotions, as each witness told her story and especially the story of the witness from darkest Africa.

After the two opposing brilliant and concise lawyers had thoroughly heard the case, the jurors sat upon it and the verdict announced was that Christian was guilty of not having done his duty in these dark countries.

With due pomp and ceremony the court was closed, each witness scarcely concealing her pleasure at the turn matters had taken.

Interesting meetings of this kind should meet with the hearty co-operation of every girl in Midd.

Miss Snell Addresses Students.

Tuesday, November 21, Miss Sara Snell of the 1915 class of Wellesley College arrived in Middlebury. She is secretary of the Student Volunteer movement and came to speak to both the men and women of the college during her stay. Miss Huldah Thomas gave a tea in her honor, inviting the faculty ladies and women of the college. Miss Snell, Mrs. Bryant, Mrs. Voter, Miss Simms, Miss Jeffords and Miss Thomas were in the receiving line and Mrs. Burrage and Mrs. Harrington poured. The social committee helped in the serving. May Miss Snell take with her the best of impressions of our college when she leaves on Thursday.

Banshee Dance.

"The call of the owl" has been heard! The "Banshees," on Saturday night, November 25, will give a dance in Masonic Hall, inviting twenty of the Juniors as their guests. Mr. and Mrs. King and Prof. and Mrs. Bonney have been asked as chaperons. The invitations were written in verse and many rhythemical responses have been received. "To-whit! To-whoo!"

Y. W. C. A. Japanese Sale.

There will be a sale of Japanese novelties in the old Benedict store on Saturday, November 25th, from 1:30 to 5:30 p. m., under the auspices of the College Y. W. C. A. Tea and Japanese wafers will be served at nominal prices. This will be a splendid opportunity to buy those unusual little gifts for the Christmas time. Come and look and buy.

COLLEGE NOTES

Arthur B. King, '12, has this year been appointed Assistant to President Thomas. One of his duties is that of handling the publicity work of the college and to see that it is well represented in the newspapers. Items of interest to friends of the college are mailed to the various papers daily. Notes from any organization in the college will be gladly received. All articles to newspapers from Middlebury College should be given to Mr. King who will see that they are inserted in the proper papers. He will be found each week-day in his office, 12 Painter Hall.

On Sunday, Rev. George E. Horr, D. D., President of Newton Theological Seminary, conducted the college vesper services at Mead Memorial Chapel. On the same day, President Thomas preached at Mount Holyoke.

Rev. A. H. Bradford, pastor of the First Congregational Church of Rutland, conducted the services at the College Chapel Sunday afternoon, the 12th. President Thomas preached at Dr. Bradford's church at the morning and evening services.

After cheer practice last Wednesday, E. S. S. Sunderland, '11, now of the U. S. Army gave a short talk to the men and congratulated them on their fine showing of enthusiasm, which, he said, was much different from that shown when he was here.

The three days' conference of the Intercollegiate Student Government Association opened on the 16th at Mount Holyoke College with delegates present from the following named colleges: Smith, Wellesley, Vassar, Bryn Mawr, Brown, Middlebury, Radcliffe, Barnard, Syracuse, Elmira, Wells, Pennsylvania State, Goucher, Lake Erie, Simmons, Western Reserve, Colby, Miami, Ohio Wesleyan, Oberlin, Alleghany, Adelphi, Swarthmore, Agnes Scott, Industrial Institute of Colorado, Hunter, Hodd, Bushnell, Randolph-Macon, Wooster, and Mary Morrison Carnegie School. Thursday afternoon, tea was served in Pearson's Hall, and senior dinners for all the delegates were given in the campus houses at night. Le Giocose, the social club of the college gave a reception and dance in Chapin Auditorium. Friday morning the closed sessions were held and in the afternoon an open meeting. The dramatic club presented "Green Stockings" by A F. W. Mason, Friday evening with music by the Mandolin Club between the acts. Saturday morning a final closed session was held and all the delegates were entertained at luncheon in the Student-Alumnae Hall. A reception was held Saturday evening. The delegates were entertained at the homes on the campus and at College and Croysdale Inns. The Middlebury representatives to the conference were: Helen Cussons, '17, Lucy Smith, '18, Ruth Hesselgrave, '18, and Helen Simms, '17.

On Friday afternoon November 17, the young women of the new Delta Delta Delta chapter were pledged to membership in that fraternity by Miss Graham of the Alpha Beta chapter of Cornell University and Miss Wood of Beta chapter at Saint Lawrence University. After the Christmas recess the new chapter together with its pledges will be initiated and installed. At that time it is expected that several of the national officers will be present, and a large number of representatives from various nearby chapters.
